

Public Safety Leadership Program

DANIELS COLLEGE OF BUSINESS

Through Executive Education, the Daniels College of Business partners with leading Colorado organizations to build the most innovative leadership programs for their executives and emerging leaders. With a commitment to relevance as our guide, programs are tailored to the specific needs, culture, and strategy of the organization.

PROGRAM OVERVIEW

The primary objective of the Daniels College of Business Public Safety Leadership Development Program is to further develop public safety emerging leaders in our local communities. Participants will gain insight into their personal style, capabilities, strengths, and weaknesses and in turn understand their team's capabilities, strengths, and weaknesses. Emphasis will be placed on developing leaders and understanding team dynamics. The program, developed in partnership with the Arapahoe County Sheriff's Office, combines world-class speakers with personal assessments, leadership exercises, analytical assignments, and challenging activities to provide a life-changing experience.

PROGRAM PARTICIPANTS RECEIVE:

- Access to some of the world's best resources in graduate level business education and leadership development
- Increased visibility into areas of personal strength and insight into potential areas for growth
- Tools to develop and maintain stronger peer relationships and information to help with current challenges
- Education to improve team organizational performance
- Exposure to best practices in a variety of subject matter areas to assist in dealing with business and operational situations

PROGRAM STRUCTURE

We recognize that time is a most valuable resource; therefore this program is highly concentrated. The program compresses the very best content and resources into five days; assignments are completed between sessions allowing participants to apply what they have learned and return to the team with stories of success and insightful questions, further customizing the program as it progresses.

The first session will be held offsite at The Nature Place where participants will be removed from their day to day lives and immersed in the program. Sessions 2 and 3 will be held at Daniels College of Business on the University of Denver campus.

PROGRAM FEES

$1,200 per person, including all program materials, lodging and meals at The Nature Place, and breakfast and lunch at The Daniels College of Business. Transportation is at your own expense.

Daniels College of Business is committed to providing relevant, life-changing educational experiences; we look forward to partnering with you to further develop extraordinary leaders within our local law enforcement.
