

Biology and Control of Vectors and Public Health Pests: The Importance of Integrated Pest Management

The workshop features presentations from top entomologists and IPM experts in the U.S. and includes interactive group activities and discussion on a variety of important topics including:

- Integrated pest management (IPM)
- Vector-borne diseases of public health importance
- Rodent management
- Bed bug biology, control and interactive inspection
- Mosquito management
- Tick management
- Pests in the Housing Environment
- Pests in the Food Environment and Interactive Inspection

Presented by: National Environmental Health Association and Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, National Center for Environmental Health, Environmental Health Services Branch (CDC/NCEH)
In cooperation with Colorado Environmental Health Association

November 5-7

Workshop Location:
Hilton Garden Inn
600 S Colorado Blvd
Denver, CO 80246

This workshop is funded by CDC and is free to attend. Space is limited so please get your application in quickly.

To register for the workshop, please fill out the application form and submit to Christl Tate at: ctate@neha.org.

For more information regarding the course, please contact Christl Tate at: ctate@neha.org or (303) 756-9090 x305.

If you need overnight accommodations, a room block has been set aside at:

Hilton Garden Inn
600 S. Colorado Blvd.
Denver, CO 80246

