

Laurence Lucero joined the Office of Research and Statistics in 2011 where she serves as a primary staff for the Commission on Criminal and Juvenile Justice. Laurence is also responsible for conducting several research projects including the Youthful Offender System evaluation and the data collection and report writing related to two legislative mandated projects (House Bill 15-1273 Law enforcement activities on school grounds, and Senate Bill 15-217 Officer-Involved Shootings). Throughout her career at the Division of Criminal Justice, Laurence participated in a variety of activities including the design and implementation of statewide data collection projects, personnel procedures, IT coordination and grant/budget management. Laurence was previously employed with the Colorado Bureau of Investigation as a crime data specialist, working with CCIC (Colorado Crime Information Center) and NCIC (National Crime Information Center) where she updated criminal and civil records with final dispositions, and processed warrant information and sex offender registrations. She also worked for the University of California (San Francisco), IBM, and the Ritz Hotel in Paris. Laurence is fluent in French, English and Spanish. She graduated from the Institut Rue Monsieur in Paris with a Bachelor's Degree in Economics and graduated with an International Business degree from the Chambre de Commerce in Paris.
