6. Comments:

   a. This is a campaign with several materials including a training video, pamphlets, posters, and public service announcements. The training video is about 13 minutes and may be ordered as a hard copy or streamed from the website. All the materials are available in English and Spanish.
   b. The materials highlight child and adolescent victims in the US, emphasizing the importance of raising awareness among schools and child service agencies.
   c. Symptoms that child victims of trafficking and exploitation may exhibit are presented, along with common industries where these children can be found. Conversation starters are provided to help individuals approach suspected victims of trafficking.
   d. Child victims of trafficking may be able to remain in the US through either the T visa program or the Unaccompanied Refugee Minors program.
   e. Victims and other concerned parties can call the National Human Trafficking Resource Center for help at 888-3737-888.
