6. Comments:
 - a. Teens will learn about bullying and model positive behavior by guiding a younger group of elementary or middle school students in creating a bullying prevention project. Younger students learn about bullying prevention and positive relationships from the older students.
 - b. This toolkit provides the guidance and considerations that the teens will need in order to implement the bullying prevention project. There are many tools included:
 - i. Suggestions for securing adult advisors
 - ii. Parent permission and media release forms
 - iii. Suggestions for meeting styles and frequency
 - iv. Project timeline template
 - v. Sample budget and suggestions for locating funding
 - vi. Questions for evaluation at the completion of the project
 - c. Brief, easily approachable for students, and supported by all the free resources at StopBullying.gov, this toolkit provides concrete ideas for teens who would like to take action to prevent bullying.
 - d. Encouraging older and younger students to interact provides both groups with the opportunity to learn from each other and the process of working together.
